

Judith J. Devine, Senior Associate Dean

FSU Graduate School

Judith (Judy) Devine, Senior Associate Dean, joined the Graduate School in 2001. Her responsibilities include serving as the University Ombudsperson for graduate students; advising graduate students regarding academic policies and issues; coordinating several annual Graduate School competitions (e.g., Three Minute Thesis, Master's in Four, Research and Creativity Awards); developing and administering a number of surveys with the assistance of Institutional Research (e.g., Ph.D. Exit Survey, Master's Exit Survey, Student Services Survey for First Year Graduate Students); coordinating the annual FSU Equity Report for the Office of Equal Opportunity & Compliance; coordinating the annual entries for the Graduate School in the Institutional Effectiveness Portal; teaching the Responsible Conduct of Research & Creative Endeavors graduate course; monitoring, with the Office of Research Compliance, student and postdoctoral scholar completion of the CITI responsible research online training; and was co-principle investigator for several national research studies with the Council of Graduate Schools (e.g., Responsible Conduct of Research/Creative Endeavors Course Development, Ph.D. Completion Project). Devine also oversees both the Preparing Future Faculty (PFF) Academic Certificate and the Preparing Future Professionals (PFP) Academic Certificate. She also coordinates the Postdoctoral PFF Specialized Studies Program and the Postdoctoral PFP Specialized Studies Program. In support of the PFF and PFP programs, Devine provides professional development workshops throughout the calendar year. Prior to serving in the FSU Graduate School, Devine worked in the University of Tennessee Office of the Provost overseeing a statewide desegregation program for Tennessee colleges and universities and coordinating both a Handbook for High School Counselors and six statewide conferences for counselors. Devine earned her BS from the University of Texas, Austin, her master's from the University of Oklahoma, and her doctorate from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.
